third-party financial institutions to process our credit card transactions. We have found this is a cost-effective method of reaching additional potential constituents. These organizations will not have continued access to your name and address if you choose to respond to their initial mailing and opt out. We do not share email address data in connection with this list exchange.

We respect our donors' choices and control over their information. You, as a donor, may, at any time, have your name excluded from any donor list exchange activity.
